

Bike Shipping for the Washington, DC Triathlon

You can have your bike shipped to The Bike Rack and we will build it for you before the race. We will also box your bike after the race so that you can have it shipped back home. Please follow these instructions:

- Call us no later than the beginning of May to schedule your bike build, and at the same time to schedule your bike to be boxed after the race.
- You will need to schedule your own bike shipping from home through one of the carriers (UPS, FedEx, etc.). At the same time please schedule your bike to be shipped from The Bike Rack to your home or to a bike shop near your home to be re-assembled.
- Please schedule these shipments to coordinate with the dates we give you when you schedule your bike build before and after the race.
- When you come to pick up your bike please remember to bring the return shipping label with you so we can attach it to the box after we re-pack your bike. You can also email it to us in advance to info@bikerackdc.com.
- Keep all receipts with tracking numbers from the shipping company.
- Please do not pack your race accessories (helmet, shoes, etc) with the bike, as we prefer not to be responsible for those items.
- The charge for bike assembly is normally $60 to $150 depending on the degree of complexity/difficulty. Not to worry, the majority of bikes that we assemble fall under the $60 range. The charge for packing your bike after the race is also $60 to $150. Now for the good news...All participants of the Washington, DC Triathlon receive a 25% discount on bike assembly before the race and bike boxing after the race.
